

From Avranches to Petit-Celland

France - Normandie

La Godefroy (Amis Bretons de Colombar)

A complete change of atmosphere from the previous stage. No more salt meadows but meadows and woods, no more dykes at constant altitude but steep paths, no more sheep but cows and horses. We enter Normandy by following the river Sée.

1. Take the track on the right just before the wood and follow it until you reach a street. Turn left, then left again, onto the road leading to the Méhenry farm. Continue along the track until you reach a road. Turn right.
2. At the crossroads, turn right onto the track that runs alongside the leisure centre pond. At the road, turn left. On leaving the village of Le Hamel, at the crossroads with a calvary, turn left onto the road and then the track that runs alongside it. At the fork after entering the wood, turn left and go down to the D104. Turn right and, after passing the Palorette mill, turn right into the village of St Brice.
3. Turn left at the church square, then right at the fork in the road (red/white signs).
4. After passing the calvary, turn left onto the track. Continue straight on, either on this path or on the tarmac sections, until you reach the village of Les Forges. Go through the hamlet, leaving the access road, and take the track on the right. Head up towards the villages of La Chatterie and L'Eurtre.
5. At the crossroads, turn left onto the Hardouin track. Continue along this path, then, as it bends to the right, turn left onto the path under the trees. Follow this to the pond. Cross the pond dike and turn left. Continue as far as the village of La Tessardière.
6. Go through the village and, at the crossroads, turn left for a few metres and then right onto the path that bends into a hairpin bend. At the road, turn right to reach Le Petit Celland.

Avranches was originally the capital of the Abrincates, and in the 5th century became the seat of a bishopric. Its most famous bishop in the 10th century was Aubert, who founded Mont St Michel.

The Three Crosses (D)

Originally made of wood (in 1814) and then granite, these three crosses from 1899 were erected in honour of victims between the Chouans and the Republicans: (two refractory priests for the first cross, Victor-Philippe de Cantilly killed on 2 May 1796 for the second and Gabriel-Fleury Desfeux and Louis-George de Gouvetz for the third).

Le Petit-Celland (E)

The church was built in the 10th century. It was almost entirely rebuilt after the bishop visited in 1749 and judged it to be in a poor state of repair, leaving only the base of the bell tower and a keystone bearing the date 1607. It was enlarged in the 19th century and the spire built in 1901. It houses a number of objects listed as historic monuments.
