Church of Hillion (A)

Built on the foundations of a Romanesque building, the church of Hillion, dedicated to St John the Baptist, dates mainly from the 14th and 15th centuries. The granite stoup dates from the 14th century. It was included in the supplementary inventory of Historical Monuments in 1970.

The chapel of St Yves and St Mathurin des Marais (B)

This 17th century chapel replaces an older building dedicated to St Yves. The canonisation trial of St Yves relates that Guillaume de Tournemine, son of the lord of Hunaudaye, was about to be swallowed up by the tide after venturing too far on the strikes. He then devoted himself to St Yves and was saved. In recognition of this, he built the chapel of Saint Yves des Marais around 1330.

The Pont-Rolland hydroelectric dam is fed by the Gouessant river. It is completed, about 100 metres downstream, by a power station. The EDF concession ended in 2010 and electricity production stopped in 2013. The dam is state-owned.

⚡ The St Lazarre mill (E)

The windmill of St Lazarre was built between 1788 and 1829 at the top of Mount Boët by the Duke of Penthièvre who owned it until 1789.

Its 22m wings were added in 1974 and restored in 2012. They were designed to receive sails but were never equipped with them.

The last miller ceased his activity in 1901. Bought by the municipality in 1972, it is currently occupied by an association. It was listed on the Supplementary Inventory of Historical Monuments in 1977.
